Bluegill Family Fishing Tournament Sept. 28 at TFFC

The Texas Freshwater Fisheries Center's annual Bluegill Family Fishing Tournament will take place this year on Saturday, September 28. Numerous prize packages will be awarded, including an X-Box 360 with game, fishing equipment and gift cards from local businesses. More than $2,500 in prizes will be awarded.

Sponsors of the event include: Wulf Outdoor Sports, Lake Athens Property Owners Association, Aaron's Sales and Lease Ownership, Best Western Royal Mountain Inn, Holiday Inn Express Hotel and Suites-Athens, WalMart Supercenter of Athens, Chicken Express and First State Bank.

Sponsors also include Lake Fork Trophy Lures and Brookshire's Grocery. Brookshire's will provide free bottled water to contestants.

The tournament awards prizes for the heaviest stringers of sunfish, but the event is really about adults and children having fun fishing together.

Teams must consist of one adult 18 years of age or older and one child under 18 years of age. Each team can weigh in a maximum of four fish. Multiple teams can fish from the same boat, making it possible for both parents to partner with different children and still fish as a family. Team members are not required to be related.

Teams may choose to fish either on Lake Athens, which is adjacent to TFFC, or in TFFC's ponds and streams, some of which have been stocked with bluegills.

All species of sunfish or bream (except largemouth bass) are allowed; for information on identifying them, see <http://www.tpwd.state.tx.us/landwater/water/aquaticspecies/inland.phtml>.

Pre-registration is required. Mail registration must be received by Wednesday, September 25. To request a registration form, call (903) 670-2222.

You may register in person on the day of the event by going to the admissions booth at the Texas Freshwater Fisheries Center AFTER 7:00 a.m.

A $15 entry fee per team will be charged. The entry fee includes admission to TFFC. Fishing will take place from 7 a.m. to 2 p.m., with the weigh-in at the Anglers Pavilion at TFFC at 2:30.

For more information or to request an entry form, contact Craig Brooks at (903) 670-2222.

Strollin' With Stroman

By Dean Stroman

September is finally here. It has been extremely hot with very little rain. Water levels are low. You can now see many stumps, brush lines and forests that make Lake Fork famous. A lot of folks think and are reporting on fishing forums that Lake Fork is dangerous to run your boat with all of the visual stumps.

Lake Fork has always been dangerous to operate your boat if you do not know where the boat lanes and clear areas are. There are areas on Lake Fork that I will not run my big motor because of the numerous stumps in any water conditions. During low water conditions you can see the numerous stump fields and isolated stumps. Let me assure you it is much safer now to operate your boat than during normal or high water conditions. You can see the many stumps you used to run your motor through. Get a good mapping system and follow the marked boat lanes that are in clear areas and be patient to get to your honey hole.

When the nights start cooling down and the day temperature starts dipping below the one hundred degree mark, Fork's younger-age class bass start schooling up on most of Fork's major points all day long. Most fish will be in the eight to fifteen inch range. Top water and small lipless cranks can catch you a wash tub full of bass. Most folks boast that

Streamlined Texas Hunter Education Process Approved

Starting this fall, new hunters who need to complete the state's required hunter education will have expanded options designed to be more convenient, flexible and accessible.

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission recently approved additional options for hunter education certification, including a streamlined, one-day basic course reducing the mandatory hours of classroom instruction from 10 to a maximum of 6 hours and creating an option for anyone 17 years of age or older to take the hunting safety training completely online. The new options should be available by late September. The combination of online home study and 4 to 5 hour skills field day course will still be offered, as well as advanced hunter education available as part of high school and college courses across the state.

Anyone born after Sept. 1, 1971, must successfully complete a hunter education training course or purchase a one-time deferral good for one license year in order to hunt legally in Texas.

Based on 16 pilot classes held earlier this summer to assess new options, the core curriculum of the streamlined course brings an even sharper focus on the key reason behind the training requirement - improved hunter safety. Since mandatory hunter education first started in 1988, the number of hunting accidents and hunting fatalities has steadily declined to less than 3 per 100,000 hunters. Accidents involving those who had completed hunter education training are only in the single digits each year.

The basic course will be streamlined to cover only essential skills of safe, legal and ethical hunting.

To pass the current course options, students must get 70 percent correct if they take the traditional two-day course or 80 percent if they take the course online. Under the new system, the passing grade for all options will be a minimum score of 75 percent.

The certification is valid for life and is honored in all other states and provinces.

28 New State Game Wardens Heading to the Field

Twenty-eight new state game wardens soon will be spreading across Texas to begin their law enforcement duties after completing seven months of intensive training at the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department Game Warden Training Center in Hamilton County.

The 58th Game Warden class graduated in ceremonies recently in the House of Representatives chamber at the Capitol in Austin. Featured speaker at the event was Daniel Hodge, first assistant Attorney General of Texas.

The new game wardens will be reporting for duty at stations spanning the state from East Texas to El Paso. While the primary duty of state game wardens is to enforce hunting and fishing laws and water safety regulations, they are fully commissioned peace officers who also respond to natural disasters, assist other local and state law enforcement agencies as well as conducting public outreach on a variety of conservation-related topics.

"Their much-needed presence will be felt as they assume duty assignments all across the state," said Danny Shaw, assistant director of TPWD's Law Enforcement Division. "Texas game wardens have played a vital role for over 118 years and these officers are prepared to carry on that rich heritage and tradition."

The new game wardens received 618 hours of instruction to meet the state-mandated training requirements for their basic peace officer certification including criminal and constitutional law; firearms; self defense; use of force; defensive driving; arrest, search and seizure; ethics, and first aid.

In addition, their curriculum included another 700 to 750 hours of training related to wildlife and fisheries enforcement, the Texas Water Safety Act, wildlife and fisheries identification, public relations and communications, boat operation, ATV operation, and specialized patrol tactics. The new wardens also have become certified hunter education and boater education instructors.

The 28 new wardens will bring TPWD's Law Enforcement Division to its authorized strength of 532 game wardens, a group of men and women who are carrying on a tradition of service to Texas dating back to 1895.

These are the new game wardens, their home town, and the counties in which they will be stationed:

- Samuel D. Anderson- Nacogdoches, TX- Brewster County
- Michael I. Blevins- Hempstead, TX- Ward/Loving/Winkler County

they caught seventy-five plus bass, but what they don't tell you is that they all fit in a five gallon bucket.

Older-age class bass will also utilize these same areas, but at different times. 3:00 AM until daybreak and late afternoon until thirty minutes before dark are the best times. Night is the best bet if you are after that dream bass. The DD22 works great for Fork's nighttime bass. Also go large for Fork's bigun's during September and you will put the odds in your favor.

Fork's night action will be at its best. Points, bridges, piers and marina areas will all produce some good night action. Anytime you fish Fork at night, plan your trip before it gets dark. A flashlight, spotlight

Texas Sets Waterfowl Seasons for 2013-14

For the first time in a half century, Texas waterfowlers can take two canvasbacks daily under migratory game bird seasons approved for the 2013-14 by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission.

The increase comes with news of healthy waterfowl populations, with all species except pintail and scaup numbering above the long term goals identified in the North American Waterfowl Management Plan.

"Overall, waterfowl are doing quite well," Kevin Kraai, Waterfowl Program Leader for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department told commissioners. "We're near record levels and in some instances in the glory days for ducks."

The commission also adopted a staggered split between the North and South Zones to allow for the opportunity of an additional week for those waterfowlers who travel between zones.

In another change to the season framework that should be welcomed by hunters, the possession limits for all migratory game birds is now three times the daily limit. For ducks, including teal during the early Sept. 14-29 season, the possession limit is 18.

The only decrease in bag limit configuration involves scaup, with a reduction to three daily. Following are the adopted season dates and limits:

2013-14 Migratory Game Bird Seasons

Ducks

--High Plains Mallard Management Unit: Youth: Oct. 19 -- Oct. 20; Regular: Oct. 26 -- Oct. 27 and Nov. 1 -- Jan. 26; "Dusky" Duck: Nov. 4 -- Jan. 26.

--South Zone: Youth: Oct. 26 -- Oct. 27; Regular: Nov. 2 -- Dec. 1 and Dec. 14 -- Jan. 26; "Dusky" Duck: Nov. 7 -- Dec. 1 and Dec. 14 -- Jan. 26.

--North Zone: Youth: Oct. 26 -- Oct. 27 ; Regular: Nov. 2 -- Dec. 8 and Dec. 21 -- Jan. 26; "Dusky" Duck: Nov. 7 -- Dec. 8 and Dec. 21 -- Jan. 26.

and bug spray are necessities. Make sure your running lights are in working order. Know your route before you start out and stick to it. Forgetting to be cautious can spell disaster on a night trip.

If you are uneasy about venturing out on a night trip for the first time, you can book a trip with me and I will help you navigate your way around and show you some really good night holes.

If you are planning a trip to Lake Fork and need a

Texas Fisheries Biologists Work to Make Fishing Better

Texans normally associate fall with the start of hunting season, but it is also a busy time for fisheries biologists.

When you are on your favorite lake during the next few months, you may encounter a Texas Parks and Wildlife Department Inland Fisheries crew conducting one of several kinds of surveys. Information from these surveys is used to guide management decisions for the reservoir, such as what kind and how many fish to stock.

Take Lake Bridgeport as an example. TPWD biologists will be conducting a creel survey on Lake Bridgeport beginning September and wrapping up in May of 2014. Creel surveys are conducted by contacting anglers in person while they are on the lake fishing or when they are at a boat ramp. The creel survey will determine harvest of all fishes from the lake, especially largemouth bass and Palmetto bass, during the period. (As part of an every-other-year stocking plan, 59,756 Palmetto bass fingerlings were stocked in May 2013.) Other information such as monetary value of the fishery, sizes of fish harvested and caught and angler residence will also be determined. After all the data are compiled and analyzed, a management report will be written which summarizes the results and recommends strategies to improve or maintain the fishery. The report will be available late summer of 2014.

An electrofishing boat (also known as a shocking boat) will be used to sample the fish in Lake Bridgeport in early November. Electrofishing works best at night in six feet of water or less. Biologists expect to collect a wide range of sizes of largemouth bass, smallmouth bass, and spotted bass from Lake Bridgeport. The fish are collected using long dip nets on the bow of the lighted electrofishing boat during the sampling. All bass are weighed and measured. A small sample of largemouth bass will be checked for the presence of Florida largemouth bass genes. All forage species are measured and released. Records are kept of all fish collected. Comparing numbers and sizes of fish collected over a period of years shows population trends and growth rates.

Bridgeport's crappie population will be sampled in December with a piece of gear called a trap net. It works like a minnow trap and funnels the crappie into the net, where they cannot escape. The net is set in the afternoon and taken out the next morning. The crappie are weighed, measured and released.

Finally, in March or April, channel catfish, Palmetto bass and white bass will be sampled with gill nets. Gill nets are 125 feet long by 8 feet deep and entangle fish with varying mesh sizes. Gill nets are set in the afternoon and taken out the next morning. Once again the target fish will be weighed, measured and released, if possible.

Not all lakes are surveyed every year, but chances are good that TPWD boat you see on the lake this fall and winter will not carry a game warden but a fisheries biologist working to make fishing better. Your cooperation will be appreciated.

The goal of all this activity is to make sound management decisions based on the best data available. Many times anglers ask, Why not stock (kind of fish) into (name of reservoir)? The answer may be that the reservoir does not contain habitat suitable for that species of fish. Or it may be that survey data show that fish of that species already in the reservoir are growing at less than a desirable rate, which may indicate there is not enough forage in the reservoir to support more fish. On the other hand, survey data may show that a reservoir has a forage base capable of supporting a different predator sportfish, in which case biologists may recommend stocking that species.

Stocking requests from biologists across the state are compiled and ranked. TPWD's fish hatcheries are then requested to produce fish to fulfill as many of the requests as possible.

So while you are sitting on a comfortable couch in a warm room watching sports on TV this winter, remember that fisheries biologists are out there working to see that when you go fishing, there will be fish to catch. If you have questions about the management of a lake, contact the fisheries biologist in charge of it. Contact information for TPWD fisheries biologists is at http://www.tpwd.state.tx.us/business/about/divisions/inland_fisheries/offices/index.phtml#biologist.

Meanwhile, if you catch a fish you think is a lake record, you can go online at <http://www.tpwd.state.tx.us/fishboat/fish/programs/fishrecords/> to check the current records and download an application. Take good pictures to aid in identification, and weigh the fish within three days of the catch on certified scales.

Game Warden Kevin Glass Named 2013 Texas Marine Officer of the Year

State game warden Kevin Glass has been named the 2013 Texas Marine Officer of the Year by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department's Law Enforcement Division.

The award was presented to Glass by Texas Parks and Wildlife Department Executive Director Carter Smith at a recent meeting of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission at TPWD Headquarters.

With twenty years of service and experience, Glass, stationed in Waller County, has proven himself to be an asset to Texans.

In 2012, Glass participated in more than 160 Texas Commission on Law Enforcement Officer Standards and Education training hours, including the National Association of State Boating Law Administrators Tactical Boat Operators course and the NASBLA Seated Sobriety course.

Glass is also actively involved in training his fellow game wardens, in and out of his district, in various subjects ranging from firearms to water safety. He is one of 15 trainers instructing the Seated Standard Field Sobriety Test. In addition, he is also the primary instructor for the DWI/BWI/SFST refresher course for his district and has assisted in the instruction of the SFST portion at the Texas Game Warden Academy for the last five years.

Warden Glass has arrested and filed five or more boating while intoxicated cases every year since 2009 (21 total) and has arrests for boating while intoxicated dating back to 1995. As a result of his success in the enforcement of BWI laws and many hours and late nights on the water assisting and teaching his partners, Glass is involved in nearly all BWI arrests in his district.

Year after year, Glass has been one of the leaders in his district in terms of cases filed, boat hours logged (more than 2,000 in the last four years), and training hours instructed.

In June 2011, Glass arranged a meeting with the Harris County District Attorney to discuss and demonstrate the new seated sobriety test and invited the assistant district attorneys to ride along and witness the test being administered in the field. Harris County is the third largest county per capita in the nation and consistently leads the state in alcohol-related crashes. Since that meeting, the warden has filed five BWI cases using the Standard Seated Sobriety Test and has taught and supervised others in the district resulting in the filing of six more BWI cases utilizing this test.

In addition, Glass volunteers to patrol Harris County waterways increasing the assigned game wardens of Harris County and providing leadership, experience and motivation to detect and arrest violators of BWI as well as other penal code and Parks and Wildlife code violators.

Glass is now in the running for the Southern States Boating Law Administrators Association Marine

Officer of the Year Award, which, if chosen, would make him eligible for the National Boating Safety Officer of the Year Award given by the National Association of State Boating Law Administrators.

Frozen Foods Provide Value

By Sue Hampton

Just because you hit the grocery store aisles with a budget in mind doesn't mean you should sacrifice taste.

Steer your cart toward the frozen food aisles, where you'll find many delicious selections and monstrous values, whether you're looking for fully prepared meals, snacks, side dishes or desserts. With frozen foods, there is no waste or spoilage. Save money by using just what you need and returning the rest to the freezer for another meal.

Planning meals in advance is another way to manage grocery spending. Having frozen foods on hand can be the easiest way to do this without compromising taste, nutrition and convenience. Plan a menu, make a list and create a "go-to" freezer pantry where you can prepare meals in minutes.

Here is a tasty example to whip up for family or guests without spending a bundle.

Penne Shrimp and Broccoli

1 lb. frozen shrimp, thawed, peeled and deveined

½ package (16 oz.) frozen broccoli florets

12 oz. penne pasta

3 garlic cloves, minced

¼ cup chopped onion

2 Tbsp. butter

2 Tbsp. olive oil

¼ tsp. salt

¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese

Cook pasta and drain. In a large skillet, sauté garlic and onion in butter, oil and salt until tender. Add broccoli; cook and stir over medium heat for approx. 6 minutes. Add shrimp; cook additional 4-5 minutes, or until shrimp is pink and broccoli tender. Stir in pasta and sprinkle with cheese. Serves 4.

Top off this meal with a piece of delicious "Buttermilk Pie." This recipe was one of my mom's favorites!

Buttermilk Pie

½ cup Buttermilk

1-¾ cup sugar

2 large eggs

3 Tbsp. flour

Pinch of salt

1 stick of butter

1 tsp. vanilla

Nutmeg

Preheat oven to 400. Mix everything together and pour into an unbaked 9" pie shell. Sprinkle top with nutmeg and bake 15 minutes. Reduce oven to 350 and bake for 45 minutes. Cool to allow the filling to set. Enjoy!

Try this quick delicious meal using frozen ingredients and then top it off with a piece of pie!
