Strollin' With Stroman

By Dean Stroman

April is a great month to introduce beginner bass fishermen to the sport of catching instead of fishing. There will be bass spawning, pre-spawning and post spawning. Most will be in one to fifteen foot depth range and toward mid to end of April. Big older age class females will be cruising deep water sanctuary in the twenty to thirty-five foot depth range. The biggest problem is to figure out what stage bass are in the area you are fishing. Every creek drainage, north, south, east, west, main lake area, etc. will be in a different pattern and changing daily. Once you can figure out the pattern or stage bass are in, that is when the catching starts.

A great pattern to start with on most April mornings is top water pop baits and buzz baits. The early bird gets the worm. The first thirty minutes is usually the best. On overcast days the top bite will last longer. Swim baits and square billed cranks in shad and bream pattern around main lake points and secondary points can produce all day on some days. When you are getting a slow bite on reactionary baits switch to slow morning baits, jig/craw/worms, Senko-type plastics and creature baits, lizards etc. Fish secondary points, ledges, brush piles, main lake points.

The deep bite is usually the second week of April to the end of May. A lot of early spawners head to (See Strollin.....

their deep water sanctuary right after spawning. They start ganging up off humps, ridges, and ledges, just cruising around looking for an easy meal.

With most bait fish population, barfish, bream, crappie, and shad still shallow, these big ones are hungry and aggressive. The problem is they are moving around and not staging in one area long. This is when the use of your location electronics, whether it be Lowrance or Humminbird, plays a major role in your success. Find these schools of roaming bass around deep water structure ledges, humps or ridges and you are into some of the best fishing of the year. Deep cranks and swim baits, umbrella rigs or A-rigs, whatever you call them, can be deadly on these deep bass. Once the bite stops, move on. These bass are constantly moving around. Some of the biggest catches of the year will be offshore on these deep water bass.

I still have some daytime openings and summer night trips still available. Book now, not many dates left.

Dean is sponsored by Gene Larew, Legend Boats, Mercury Marine, Century 21 Lake Country, Moby Rods by Dave, Easy Step Systems and Lake Fork Marina.

Game Warden Field Notes

The following items are compiled from recent Texas Parks and Wildlife Department law enforcement reports.

--Drunk in Love-- While patrolling near the Trinity River in Walker County, the local game warden stopped a vehicle for failing to maintain a single lane of traffic. When the warden made contact with the driver, he showed signs of impairment. After performing poorly on the standard field sobriety test, the driver was arrested for driving while intoxicated. This was his second offense. Shortly after, the suspect's wife arrived at the scene and stopped behind the warden's patrol vehicle. She also displayed signs of impairment and did poorly on the standard field sobriety tests. She was subsequently arrested for driving while intoxicated, her first offense.

--A Shot in the Foot-- A Montgomery County game warden received a call regarding a hunter who accidentally shot himself in the foot while loading a deer he had killed. During the investigation, it was found that the hunter did not possess a valid license and had tagged the deer with another hunter's tag. Additionally, the buck was not legal, and the hunter had never taken a hunter education class. The buck was seized and donated; the hunter was issued three citations plus a warning, and restitution was assessed.

--Captain Confused-- Two Calhoun County game wardens made contact with a commercial oyster vessel while patrolling San Antonio Bay doing commercial oyster enforcement. The vessel's captain said that he did not know he needed an oyster boat captain's license to harvest oysters commercially. He was escorted to the docks and placed under arrest for taking oysters without an oyster boat captain's license, a Class B misdemeanor. The oysters were sold to the highest bidder. Case pending.

--Don't Mess With Texas... or Arkansas-- A Gregg County game warden responded to a Longview Animal Control call regarding a decaying doe hanging in a resident's tree. When the warden located the deer, he also discovered an additional untagged doe behind the property and an untagged nine-point buck. Two of the four individuals interviewed claimed they harvested the two deer in Arkansas. One of the subjects confessed to taking a fourth deer in Texas, which was wasted and dumped in Arkansas. When questioned about the discrepancy between their harvest dates versus the date printed on their Arkansas hunting licenses, two of the subjects acknowledged hunting without a license. The warden then contacted Arkansas Game and Fish Commission wildlife officers who advised that they were pursuing more than $2,500 in charges. They also said that two of the men face one year suspensions, while another would receive a lifetime hunting license suspension in Arkansas. Civil restitution and multiple charges were filed, including no hunting license; hunting during closed season; failure to keep game in edible condition; untagged deer; and no harvest log. Investigation is ongoing and cases pending.

--Wrong State of Mind-- A Bowie County game warden received a call from Arkansas Game and Fish officers in reference to a truck they had stopped that was traveling east on Interstate 30 from Texas. The vehicle contained 10 whitetail deer, a bobcat and a turkey breast that had all been harvested in Central Texas. It is illegal to transport a deer with bones from a chronic wasting disease state into the state of Arkansas. Since the wildlife officers in Arkansas were not entirely familiar with Texas laws, they requested the Bowie County warden to inspect the subject's game for any Texas violations. The warden inspected the deer at the Arkansas Game and Fish district office and wrote several citations for tagging proof-of-sex violations. The state of Arkansas filed several cases for transporting deer with bone still attached, seized all of the animals and parts for their violations, and tested the deer for chronic wasting disease.

trol in the Rio Grande near Chimney Park, the local game warden noticed a pontoon boat traveling eastbound. As he passed the boat, he immediately recognized one of the passengers as someone who had a felony and misdemeanor warrant pending in Cameron County. The warden stopped the pontoon, identifying himself as a state game warden. He then asked the passenger on the pontoon boat to board the patrol boat and advised him of two warrants for his arrest. The man was then transported to Cameron County Jail for warrants that included a felony charge of false financial statements and a misdemeanor charge of tampering with ID numbers.

--Escaping the Line of Fire-- A Harris County game warden was investigating poaching activity on the north side of the county, when he noticed a dim light and moved toward the source. He then saw a man aiming a rifle at him, quickly announced his presence and positioned himself out of the line of fire. The poacher fled on foot into the woods. Two wardens, a captain and Harris County sheriff deputies responded. While conducting a search of the area, the county K-9 officer located the poacher's rifle and hunting gear hidden in the woods. Investigation is pending.

--The One That (Almost) Got Away-- A Karnes County game warden received a call from a ranch caretaker who found a truck on the property and witnessed a man with a gun run off into a bush. When the warden made contact with the suspected poacher, he stated that he knew the ranch owners but admitted that he did not have permission to be hunting there. The hunter informed the warden that he was hunting hogs but got scared when he saw the truck and ran. Because the owners did not want to file charges, no citation was issued for hunting without landowner consent. However, since the hunter did not have a valid Texas hunting license, a citation was issued for hunting without a license.

The following day, the warden received a call from the landowner's daughter, informing him that there was a gutted buck on the ranch. The suspected poacher was interviewed again and confessed that he had shot the deer but left it because he was afraid someone would catch him. Cases for hunting whitetail deer without a hunting license and waste of game are pending.

Rich Dessert Offers 'Nut'-thin but Taste

It's no secret that it takes a real nut to stand out in a crowd. Colorful and crunchy, with a smooth, unique taste that isn't over-powering, the pecan makes its presence known all the same. Pecan lovers have known this for ages.

Believe it or not, the pecan is actually good for you – not just good tasting. Rich in protein, fiber and other nutrients, research has shown that they can help reduce the risk of heart attacks and heart disease. However, all too often, pecans only make to the kitchen for holidays or special occasions.

GO 'NUTS' THIS SPRING – April is National Pecan Month, but who needs a reason to enjoy something as decadent as "Chocolate Pecan Jack Daniel's Cake" with "Jack Daniel's Chocolate Sauce."

Never fear. April is National Pecan Month, and this devilishly rich pecan chocolate cake is the perfect vehicle to explore the pecan in all its resplendence.

Chocolate Pecan Jack Daniel's Cake With Jack Daniel's Chocolate Sauce

(You can use walnuts instead of pecans, or substitute rum or brandy for the Jack Daniel's, but the pecans have a special affinity for Jack Daniel's and give it that authentic Southern "it's-way-too-rich-but-I-can't-stop-eating-it" flavor.)

Ingredients:

2 cups pecan pieces
6 tablespoons unsalted butter
6 ounces semisweet chocolate
¼ cup Jack Daniel's whiskey

8 large eggs, separated
1 cup sugar
Tiny pinch of salt

Jack Daniel's Chocolate Sauce

8 ounces good-quality semisweet chocolate, chopped or broken into small pieces
½ cup unsalted butter
3 tablespoons Jack Daniel's whiskey
¾ cup corn syrup
¾ cup heavy whipping cream

Optional Garnishes:

Confectioner's sugar
Mint Julep Ice Cream
Whipped cream, flavored with vanilla extract

Preheat the oven to 325 F. Butter and flour a 10-inch springform pan.

Spread the pecans on a baking sheet and toast for about 12 minutes, until very fragrant. Let cool, then grind the nuts in a food processor or chop finely.

Combine the butter, chocolate and whiskey in a large heat-proof bowl. Place over a saucepan of simmering water, and stir occasionally until melted and uniform. Remove from the heat.

Put the egg yolks and ¾ cup of the sugar in an electric mixer fitted with the whip attachment. Beat on high speed until very thick and pale. Stir the ground pecans into the chocolate mixture, then fold in the whipped yolks.

In a clean bowl, with a clean whip attachment, beat the egg whites on high speed until foamy. Slowly add the remaining ¼ cup sugar and the salt, and whip on high speed until soft peaks form. In three batches, quickly but gently fold the egg whites into the chocolate mixture, maintaining as much volume as possible. Pour the batter into the prepared pan and bake for 40 to 45 minutes, until the cake springs back when pressed gently into the center. Cool completely on a rack, then remove the sides of the pan.

To make the sauce, combine the chocolate, butter, whiskey and corn syrup in a heatproof bowl and set over barely simmering water. Cook, stirring occasionally, until the chocolate and butter are melted. Remove from the heat and stir in the cream. Now, see if you can keep from eating it all before it's time to serve it!

To serve, cut the cake into the desired number of portions. Place each slice on a pool of warm chocolate sauce and dust liberally with confectioner's sugar. Place a big scoop of ice cream alongside and a dollop of whipped cream on top. Why diet now?
